PROJECTS

leakkill (formerly secretsan) — open-source secrets scanner, published on PyPI (`pip install leakkill`) | github.com/ayushanand27/leakkill

- Built a pre-commit tool, with CI, that detects API keys and credentials before they reach a repository; also scans full git history.
- Added verify, revoke and report features: checks whether a leaked secret is still live, revokes it, and sends alerts (tested end to end against real GitHub and Discord credentials).
- Built a guard for AI coding agents (Claude Code hooks) that blocks commands exposing secrets files.
- Wrote clear documentation so other developers can install and use the tool without help.
